Beat the Heat

Knowing the signs and symptoms can help prevent heat-related illnesses.

Heat stroke—is the most serious heat-related illness. This happens when the body becomes unable to regulate its core temperature. When sweating stops, the body can no longer rid itself of excess heat. Heat stroke signs include: confusion, loss of consciousness and seizures. If this occurs, it is a medical emergency which could result in death. Call 911 immediately.

Heat Exhaustion—is the body's response to an excessive loss of water and salt from heavy sweating. Heat Exhaustion signs include: headache, nausea, dizziness, weakness, irritability, thirst and heavy sweating.

Heat Cramps—are muscle spasms that result from the loss of salt and water during sweating. Heat Cramp signs include: profuse sweating with involuntary spasms of the large muscles in the body.

Heat Rash—is a skin irritation caused by sweat that cannot get to the surface of the skin to evaporate. Heat Rash signs include: red bumps on skin, prickly or itchy feeling to the skin and tiny blisters.

Construction Science Expo

On May 16, 2017 the Roofers Union Local #149 and SMRCA participated in the Construction Science Expo at the Detroit Science Center. We provided information on a career in the roofing industry along with assisting the students with heat welding.

The Construction Science Expo coalition is united by the common goals of promoting a drug-free educational environment and exposing high school students to careers in engineering and construction in order to offset a predicted shortage of talent in those fields.
